HEAVY TOLL OF DEAD EXACTED FROM GERMANS AS ALLIED 5TH ARMY CRUSHES A COUNTER-OFFENSIVE BY THE NAZIS

American Troops and Tank Units Loose Major Assault To Blast Germans from Cassino — At Least 140 German Prisoners Taken near Cisterna

ALGIERS, Feb. 4.—(INS)—A heavy toll of dead was exacted from the Germans today by Allied Fifth Army units which crushed the initial phase of the long-expected Nazi counter-offensive against the beachhead area south of Rome.

Official announcement that four counter-attacks in the beachhead area were repulsed came as American troops and tank units loosed a major assault to blast the Germans from Cassino, 79 miles below Rome.

Desperate German counterblows also were struck north of Cassino, and on this front the Nazis also were repulsed.

On the beachhead area the Germans launched three counter-attacks, supported by artillery, north of Pagliano. The fourth attack was launched against the Americans west of Cisterna. At least 110 German prisoners were taken around the beachhead.

Once more German aircraft became increasingly active over the beachhead area.

Increase Service At Social Security Office

An increase in the local interviewing service provided in Bristol by the Kensington Field Office of the Social Security Board will be effective beginning with the month of February, it was announced today by Harry W. Pease, manager of the Board's Kensington Field Office.

"A representative will be at the Bristol Post Office, on the second and last Thursday of the month from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m.," Mr. Pease said, "to assist claimants to file applications for insurance payments. It is advisable to send a letter explaining the circumstances in advance so that full instructions can be forwarded as to the need for birth certificate, marriage certificate, or other records. Letters should be sent to the Kensington Field Office, 510 Ninth Bank Building, Kensington and Allegheny avenues, Phila., 34, Penna., or telephone Regent 4898 for instructions. Office hours are from 8.30 a. m. to 5 p. m., Monday to Saturday, inclusive."

"These provisions are of vital concern to almost every family in America," Mr. Pease said. He explained that insured workers, age 65 or over, should file a claim as soon as they retire from work. Supplementary insurance payments become payable to the wife of the retired worker when she attains age 65. Her payment will equal one-half of her husband's benefit.

Monthly insurance payments are provided for the widow of an insured wage earner who has children under 18 years of age in her care and also for such children.

The widow of an insured wage earner after she attains age 65 is entitled to a payment equal to three-fourths of her deceased husband's monthly payment as long as she lives.

Before starting her address, Miss Bowen displayed to the audience a painting by George W. Sotter, as a memorial to Corp. Howard W. Jordan, a former teacher at New Hope, who was the first member of any Bucks county school faculty to be killed in this war.

At the business meeting of the association authority was voted the hospital and visiting nurse committee to expend approximately $2,500 for painting the entire interior of the hospital. It was announced by the president that the canvass for funds during the 1943 campaign totaled $9,001.04. She also announced that the hospital and visiting nurse committee reported the investment of $5,000 in War Bonds, funds that had accrued chiefly through legacies.

Mrs. Bernard Repass read the new by-laws and her motion that they should be adopted was unanimously approved. A total membership of 208 was reported by Miss Gertrude D. Shearer, treasurer, and Mrs. George E. Ely, town, was introduced as a new member.

The report of the canning committee, Mrs. A. Russell Thomas, chairman, was that the hospital has received over 2,000 cans of food during the past year, 990 more than had been received in 1942. In addition, gifts of canned goods were given by Trinity Church of Solebury, the Buckingham school and a portion of the food collected by the Doylestown schools for Abington Hospital.

Miss Bowen in the discussion of her topic explained that there were three groups to be considered, the college, the high school and the elementary school students. She said the war in its direct influence came nearest to the college student as the one who was to be called to the services in the near future.

"The war," said Miss Bowen, "has had a good effect as well as bad on the educational institutions. The shortened term that has been found necessary has stimulated the students and the faculties and has provided a steady stream of manpower to the military and to industry. The most regrettable result of the shortened courses has been the tendency to discriminate against the cultural aspects of education."

Miss Bowen stated that the war has tended to eliminate a number of the smaller colleges which were more or less superfluous.

"Too many people have been prepared for teaching," she said.

"The high schools have, to a great extent, imitated the colleges in shortening their courses. They, however, have not suffered from the loss of students that the colleges have. I am glad to say that of the 8,500 high school students in Bucks county, last year, very few of them failed to return last Fall for this year's sessions. And this in spite of the almost fabulous wages that were being paid those boys and girls."

"The war has offered the young person an opportunity to share in community work, defense organizations, first aid lessons, assistance in the various drives and similar endeavors which have given the school student the feeling that he is part of the community and in working with it, is responsible for a portion of its activities. This has also been true of the teachers who have been generally considered as not doing their share of community work."

FILIPINO SOLDIERS FOUND GIRL HALF BURIED IN A SHALLOW GRAVE AFTER FORTY-SIXTH DIVISION DROVE ENEMY BACK

Further details of the barbaric acts of Japanese in the Philippines are revealed by Col. Charles P. Romulo, noted Filipino writer, author of two best sellers and aide-de-camp to Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur, in the fourth article of his series.

By Col. Carlos P. Romulo
(Written Exclusively For International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(INS)—Filipino soldiers of the Forty-sixth Division found her half-buried in a shallow grave, near a Japanese foxhole, during those terrible days of fighting in Bataan. She had been a pretty girl, and well brought up. The Filipino patrol that found her body, after driving the enemy back, said that her dress, though soiled, was of good material, and that her finger nails were trimmed and polished.

Her name was embroidered on her handkerchief—Erlinda. Her family name had been lost—somewhere in transit from the peaceful town where she had been born and reared and courted, to that last bloody piece of earth.

NOTE TOSSED FROM A TRAIN IS DELIVERED

Perkasie Man Uses Unique Method For Delivery; En Route To New Base

SERVING IN THE NAVY

PERKASIE, Feb. 4.—Taking advantage of an opportunity that presented itself as his troop train passed through this borough, John Gebbert dropped a note from his coach as it sped through the community, asking the finder to deliver it to his wife or telephone her to call for it.

The message was promptly delivered, and so delighted was Mrs. Gebbert to receive the message from her seaman husband that she forgot to ask the name of the man to whom the note had been hurled.

Gebbert had just completed his basic training at Sampson, N. Y., and suspecting that he was bound for Portsmouth, Va., and would not be passing through his home town, wrote a note, and as the train sped through the borough in the early evening he tossed the note to a man he saw standing on the siding.

Word was also sent Mrs. Thomas Helf, of this place, that her husband was aboard the same train, and that he also was en route to Virginia.

Before entering the service, Seaman Gebbert was an employee of the Pennsylvania Power & Light Company, Sellersville, where he spent the greater part of his life.

Several weeks ago another local resident used the same method to have a letter delivered to a relative here.

Father-Son Banquet Is Planned For Feb. 22nd

MORRISVILLE, Feb. 4.—The annual father-son banquet of the Men's Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church will be held on February 22nd, at 6.30, in the gymnasium of the church on Union street. Men of the town are invited to attend, provided they are accompanied by a boy.

Vincent Mears is general chairman, assisted by Olin Work, Walter DeLashmutt, Charles Hughes, Lawrence Lane, Samuel Childs and William Anderson, tickets; Andrew Chamberlin, Coleman Morgan, program; Robert Brenner, Dr. John Wittekind, David Arnoldi, publicity.

When the Filipino patrol returned and told the story of Erlinda, an overpowering wave of anger and hate swept the men at the front. They pleaded for an offensive; they volunteered for daring patrols; they wanted to do something, something with their hands, to avenge the unknown girl and her countless sisters in suffering.

And yet, Erlinda had been lucky. Death had rescued her soul and covered her ravaged body. Others had not been so fortunate. They had been assaulted by Japanese soldiers before the faces of their fathers, brothers, husbands. They had been stripped naked and paraded before the Japanese troops. They had been passed from camp to camp, shamed and beaten and driven out to starve.

For the Japanese soldier, when left to himself in a conquered town, is unable to discipline his lowest instincts. He practices to the full his national philosophy that woman is but an instrument of pleasure, created for the recreation of the warrior. He saves his wounded pride with easy victories over the women whose men he cannot conquer.

This is the kind of enemy we face, an enemy who vents his anger and frustration on the helpless and the weak and parades his power and superiority by means of cruelties and barbaric acts.

Resistance continued everywhere in the Philippines. Japanese terrorism has intensified rather than lessened Filipino hate. It has steeled the hearts of the Filipinos more strongly to fight the invader. The Filipinos remember the lives that must be avenged; they remember the shame that must be washed away in blood; they remember the homes that must be redeemed and the honor that must be protected. They remember Erlinda!

For other Erlindas are suffering in the Philippines today. There was the case of a Filipino girl who refused the attention of a Japanese officer. She was kidnapped, taken to a suburb of Manila, and because she resisted on the way, she was stabbed several times and her dead body was picked up the following day by the roadside. There was the case of five waitresses who were forcibly undressed by drunken Japanese soldiers and were made to go out in the street naked.

An entire family in the town of Sosario, Cavite, was tortured by a squad of Japanese soldiers when the two young ladies of the house laughed at them as they were encamped in the town plaza across the street. The girls' father and mother were struck with the butt of the soldiers' guns and while they were unconscious the girls were attacked. The 17-year-old brother who came running from the town market to help his sisters was shot by one of the Japanese as he entered the house and an old neighbor who tried to pick up the dead boy's body was also shot and killed.

I have positive information about all these atrocities.

TWO WOMEN OF THE USMCWR SPEAK TO SERVICE CLUB MEN

Address Rotary Club at Noon Meeting and Exchange Club in Evening

TALKS WELL RECEIVED

Exchange Club Holds Usual Business Session Before Address

Two members of the United States Marine Corps Women's Reserve, Sgt. M. A. Spencer and Sgt. Christine Clifford, were the guest speakers before the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club yesterday afternoon at the Elks' Home and before the Exchange Club meeting last evening.

A business session preceded the Exchange program, at which time committee reports were heard and plans for coming meetings were made. President A. Bustraan was in charge.

Wesley Spencer, ex-Marine and well-known local businessman, introduced the "women Marines" at the Rotary Club session. In his introductory remarks Mr. Spencer said:

"I asked your honorable pianist, Sam Shire, a few days ago if it would be possible for the United States Marines to have a small part in your program today, and he referred me to my good friend, Dick Fechtenburg, who very graciously told me that we could have all of the program, and so, the Marines have landed with thanks for the privilege of being here and we hope that the situation will be held in hand."

"There is an old saying among men of the Marine Corps that 'Once a Marine, always a Marine,' and so, of course, I am assuming the right of an old time Marine in taking a small part of your time here today. I am a member of the Marine Corps League, a national organization of ex-marines actively interested in the affairs of all Marines and, as you have no doubt observed by this time, some of them are very attractive."

"And, so, gentlemen, with that in mind, I would like to briefly summarize the highlights and tradition of the Corps. You have read in your papers of the exploits and accomplishments of the Marines in this war. In the valiant defense of Wake, the Guadalcanal campaign, the capture of Iwakuni and Tulagi, and the courageous and bloody attack and reduction of Tarawa, the Marines were living up to the high standards and traditions of their Corps."

"For more than a century and a half, the Marine Corps has been a glorious exemplar of faithfulness and noble deeds. The record of the Corps from the date of its inception to the present day has been in the highest degree honorable to our country. Yet, full as it is of incidents honoring the name and flag of the United States, the story of its worthy work is but dimly known to the great majority of our people. It is a record of work done for flag and country in many lands and under the stress of many emergencies. It is reminiscent of the great value often proved of an organization, small in numbers, but thoroughly trained to an exceptional degree of resourcefulness, having a roving commission to protect American rights and property wherever threatened or assailed. Formal warfare has been only a part of the Marines' business, but the bravery and efficiency of the Marines has been a bright chapter in the history of everyone of the 'Wars of the United States.'"

Sgt. M. A. Spencer then addressed the group, saying:

"It is a pleasure to be here. This is our first visit in Bristol. There has been a great deal of comment about women in uniform and while the opportunity presents itself, I would simply say, women have a big job to do in this war. Undoubtedly thousands of women in this community are working side by side with their husbands in factories, plants, business firms, etc., taking over jobs that they never dreamed they would be called upon to handle. You know better than I the jobs they are doing in your community."

"As for the women in the service, I know the kind of work they are doing. I have been in the service for nine months now and know that service women take their work very seriously. Speaking for girls in the Marine Corps, the young women who have and are now joining the Marine Corps, consider it to be a serious step, one which is being taken with great sincerity."

"We have just had a report from England and Canada, who have a great many more women in the service than we have and they have

FREE ENTERPRISE

Free enterprise and individual initiative have been discussed much of late in the United States. There has been debate over what is meant by the terms.

In an address to stockholders of Swift & Company, President John Holmes cited examples that throw light upon what is meant by free enterprise and individual initiative. Swift was shipping beef in refrigerator cars, hanging the beef up and leaving empty space on the floors of cars. A Swift salesman received a request from a hotel to ship dressed poultry in a beef car as the supply was limited in the eastern city. That put Swift into the poultry business. The salesman initiated the new business and free enterprise followed.

Later, another Swift salesman was asked by a Missouri storekeeper to buy some cheese and throw it into a car of meat. Out of that shipment grew Swift's dairy business. President Holmes revealed, Eggs became a Swift line soon after poultry, and butter followed cheese. To assure adequate supplies of poultry, "Swift went into the hatchery business."

The story of the part free enterprise and private initiative played in the building of Swift & Company applies in greater or lesser degree to all successful business enterprises in America.

WAR END PREDICTIONS

The suggestion of the Office of War Information that key federal officials stop the public airing of their views about when the war will end has brought the comment that Secretaries Stimson and Knox should order Army and Navy commanders to keep their opinions about the duration of the war to themselves.

It has been argued that if war workers and bond buyers get the notion that the end is in sight, they will let up. But the demands of the grand strategy of the war will stay any such order by Secretaries Stimson and Knox. They will know how the enemy can be discouraged by a prediction of victory, or on about a specific date, made by a United Nations commander whose judgment must have been formed on knowledge of the enemy's strength.

And they know, too, the encouragement that can be given to American fighting men by a forecast of victory on a certain date if there is no letdown in morale and in the flow of men and supplies to the front.

The first ambition of the fighting men is to finish the job and come home. Centering this ambition on a specific date obviously gives a morale plus that inspires men.

From all the noise he is making about it Hitler's secret weapon may be fashioned after the one Joshua used to blow down the walls of Jericho.

heart. While we have had no official survey in this country that I know of, I am sure we would find women Marines of the same attitude.

"I know I speak for all branches of the service when I say that women of America pledge that they will keep pace with all in our country until victory is ours."

The second Marine Corps Women's Reserve member, Sgt. Christine Clifford, then spoke to the club.

"On Feb. 13, 1943, by an Act of Congress, women were officially accepted into the Marine Corps, receiving the same rank and advantages and bearing the same title of Marines."

"Women in the Marines receive the same training as the men, with the exception of combat training. During their six weeks of boot training they are indoctrinated into the traditions, history and purpose of the Marine Corps."

At the conclusion of these six weeks' training they are placed in jobs which are most suited to their qualifications. Those who require further training are sent to specialized schools which range from 4 to 21 weeks' duration.

At the time of the inception of the W. R. it was felt there were 15 jobs which could be handled by the Women's Reserve but this has now been extended to 30 jobs. To day we find women Marines in jobs which range all the way from truck drivers, radio operators, tank trainer operators, and aviation maintenance to stenographers, clerks, etc. Women Marines do not serve overseas. They are limited to the U. S. This is only natural as their original purpose is to free more Marines to fight.

"During the six weeks' boot training at Camp Lejeune, New River, N. C., recruits must live six months to a year, because it is such a complete transformation from civilian to military life. From the minute she rises at 6:15 until she hits the sack at 10 p. m. her day is planned for her."

We thank Thee, O Father, that Thou hast called us into Thy Service, and that Thou hast placed upon our shoulders the responsibility of the present day. In Thy providence Thou hast decreed that the Kingdom of Christ will be advanced in proportion to the faith and devotion of the living Church. Let us not be so blinded by the conditions of the world today that we fail in our God-given task of spreading the Gospel of Christ, for here is the hope of the world today and always. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

TRENTON, Feb. 4.—The Fleetwings Girls' team continued to remain among the leaders in the Trenton Girls' League by swamping the Top Road aggregation, 44-4, on the Junior High School, No. 4 floor.

The Top Roaders were no match for the Bristol girls who piled up a 19-2 lead in the first quarter and then shutout the Trentonians in the second period to take a 26-2 lead. Again in the third session, the Bristol guards prevented Top Road from scoring while holding it down to a lone field goal in the last period.

Betty Duffy and Ethel Link were the sharpshooters for the winners with six field goals each. Eleanor Hughes was close behind with four double-deckers. Emily Sak and Theresa Elenko did a fine job at guarding.

Sportsmen's Briefs

By JOE ELBERSON

Game stocking . . . nine hundred and two cock pheasants were released in Bucks County last week. The birds, consigned from the Pennsylvania Game Commission, were in excellent condition. Of the total number stocked 252 were placed in the lower end of the county and the remaining 650 in the upper end of the county, this territory being very much larger than the lower section.

Of the 252 birds sent to the lower end the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association and the Embury Rod & Gun Club each received 25 pheasants.

As far as stocking of rabbits by the Commission this year is concerned . . . the only rabbits to be stocked will be those that have been taken in the Commission's rabbit trapping program from lands closed to hunters and then stocked on open hunting territory.

I understand that one local group of hunters has ordered several rabbits so that their dogs will have something to run.

Sportsmen's associations interested in reducing the predatory animal population locally, a condition brought about by a low fur market and absence of trappers due to the war effort, will do well to take a lead from the book of the Warren Field and Stream Club which has been holding fox hunts almost every week-end. Game officials in making this announcement recently said the Warren group is doing a real job and that they believe a lot of other clubs will want to benefit by their experiences.

Their method is simple: A survey of the local territory is made and a section where there is the greatest concentration of fresh fox tracks is selected as the theater of operations. Watchers are placed around the area on three sides close enough together so that a fox should be killed if he tries to pass between two men. The area should be at least a half mile long because foxes usually move out far ahead of the drivers. It should also be stepped off to determine how many men will be required to cover three sides.

At a pre-arranged time drivers move toward watchers and the fun begins. As the drivers move through, the watchers start falling into line, tightening the drive.

Several clubs in Bucks county have taken steps to decrease the local fox population. The New Hope club is now planning a drive similar to the one run by the Warren group. Sellersville sportsmen are paying a premium to members who bring in fox pelts from that section. And the Bristol club is offering twenty dollars to that member who kills the most foxes in this section during 1944.

Date to remember: Next Tuesday, February 8 . . . meeting of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association in the Odd Fellows Hall at 8 p. m. All sportsmen are always welcome.

GEORGE SCHOOL FIVE TO PLAY BRISTOL HERE

The first of a trio of home games in succession will be played on the high school floor tonight when Bristol High meets the highly-touted George School basketball team. In the preliminary game, the high school junior varsity will meet the Philadelphia Boys' Club.

According to Coach "Bill" Bartholomew, the first game tonight will begin at seven o'clock. This will enable the games to be over sooner so that the George School team can catch a bus for home.

Tuesday night, the Riverside team will come here and next Friday, Bristol will meet the Bensalem Owls in a Lower Bucks County tilt. Bristol has lost its last six games and it was George School, with "Charley" Parks leading the way, which started the Bunnies on its downward path. Now the localites are out to beat the George Schoolers and try to begin a winning streak.

Coach Bartholomew felt as if his boys should have made a much better showing against George School in their first meeting. His proteges played brilliantly during the first half but appeared too "lazy" to play in the second half which gave George School a chance to pile up a large lead.

It is most likely that Fischer, DiAngelo, Embessi, Oriola and Collins will be the starting five in tonight's fracas.

HULMEVILLE

Seventeen members attended the session of the Neshaunim Methodist Ladies' Aid Society on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Edward Winder, Middletown Township. Mrs. Warren Winder was a co-hostess. Mrs. H. Twellan Miller presided, with Miss Grace H. Hilck having charge of the devotional period. The nomination of officers will occur at the next meeting; and at that time also "secret sisters" will be revealed, and new ones chosen. Mrs. E. D. Atter conducted the social period when games were enjoyed. The hostesses served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gill and John Gill, of Bristol; Pvt. Richard T. Gill, of the U. S. Army; Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Valentine, Brooklyn, N. Y., were Saturday visitors of Mrs. Harry Gill. Miss Helen Gill, Philadelphia, spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Gill.

William Penn Fire Co. members will meet tonight at eight o'clock in the fire station.

THE STORY OF A SHIP

... and of three companies and 4500 men and women from the Philadelphia area who supply chemical materials that help keep our Armed Forces supplied—with enough and on time!

This is a Philadelphia-built ship, steaming down the Delaware with war materials. Sometimes the goods, packed in fibreboard containers, are exposed for weeks . . . often must be floated ashore. To make these containers weatherproof and watertight, manufacturers treat them with UFORMITE synthetic glues. This is the ship unloading food supplies. Food is ammunition. To guard it from insect pests in transit, shippers use sprays containing LETHANE 384 SPECIAL, a synthetic organic insecticide. *** This is our ship in drydock. Barnacles, clinging and spreading on ship bottoms, slow a vessel down, must be laboriously scraped off. To keep barnacles away, shipbuilders now coat ship bottoms with anti-fouling paints made from CUPROUS OXIDE. *** This Story of A Ship would not be complete without a salute to the more than 4500 men and women in the Philadelphia area who produce these and many other war-vital chemical materials, for which they have been awarded three Army-Navy "E" flags.
